Funeral services were conducted at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday at Fort Hill United Methodist Church by Dr. Carroll Freeman. Burial took place in Early's Chapel United Methodist Church Cemetery.

Virginia Funeral Chapel was in charge of arrangements.

County's Retail Sales Tax Passes $Half-Million

Appomattox County's income from the state-local retail sales tax, now beginning its fourth year, passed the half-million mark during 1969.

According to the figures of R. Garland Plunkett, county treasurer, the exact amount of income through December 31, 1969, is $612,646.50.

Under the General Assembly-devised method of dividing this income, a four-way split is made; to public schools, to the county and to the towns of Appomattox and Pamplin. The taxation began in late 1966.

The present tax is four percent, made up of the three percent state, retail sales tax and the one per cent local sales tax.

Split Method

The localities share by distribution to all counties and independent cities in the state tax and to the extent of one per cent. All proceeds under this requirement come to the localities earmarked for schools.

The local option one per cent tax income may be used for any purposes deemed necessary by the county appropriating authority, the board of supervisors.

The local tax, however, must be shared with towns within the county under a formula devised in the original law. This is computed on number of schools ge children residing in the various jurisdictions.

Under this formula, the towns of Appomattox and the town of Pamplin receive 13.6% of 50% of the total tax and Pamplin, 3.98% of 50% of the total tax received. As an example, the check for 1% tax received in Dec. 1969 totaled $7,393. Appomattox received $441.00 and Pamplin $96.11.

The local tax produced $98,575.95 this year, highest total thus far.

Since the 1% tax went into effect the town of Appomattox has received $15,325.19 and Pamplin, $4,011.62.

Sales tax income is received monthly but the receiving schedule is two months behind the tax collection due to the roundabout route the funds take from the collecting merchants to the state and back to the localities.

Valentine Dance Friday Night

Valentine hearts, and cut-outs of giant playing cards, (featuring the King and Queen of Hearts, of course) are quite in order as Beta Sigma Phi sorority members cut and paste bright red decorations for their annual Valentine Dance at the Avalon Friday night. Carroll Kay and his orchestra will provide the music for dancing from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. with a buffet at midnight. Delta Zeta chapter president, Mrs. Janet Noble, is closest to camera working with Mrs. Mary Bartelt on last-minute touches. A Valentine Queen is selected each year from the sorority membership.

This Old House

(Taken from THE DAILY REVIEW, Clifton Forge, Virginia Thursday, January 24, 1970.

By T. C. Bates, Chaplain, C& O Hospital

Just across the street from the house in which I live, some men have been tearing down one of the older residences of our part of town. Day after day the work of demolition has been going forward. First, they removed the lower and upper sash, so that falling plaster would go to the ground. The roof was peeled off in clumsy-looking bundles. Beginning at the top, they are removing boards and bricks and framing timbers, piece by piece. Then follows the gathering of like material, for sale on the location or transfer to a place of storage. Parts of the old house may be used for building a manse, a hospital, a school, or a temple of worship.

My mind often goes back to the people who built the house and to the people who have lived in it. This was the dwelling-place of a family, a unit of society and a colony of the body politic. Here children were born and grew to maturity. Marriages were celebrated here and the death angel came to claim his own. Widely scattered are those former neighbors of ours through many years. Some of them have gone to their eternal reward and some are trying to make of this present world a better place in which to live. We remember them with appreciation and gratitude. Kindness of other days can never be forgotten.

My mind also goes out in another direction. While the old house is being torn apart, it is easy to remember that these human bodies of ours are surely returning to the dust. Even the growing years of childhood and youth bear evidence to the frailty of this house of clay. The breaking up of our bodies has gone much farther for most of us than we think. One severe test and our toasted strength is gone. And with the waning power of the human frame comes the sense of victory for the child of God, Christian comfort lies in the divine promise that if our earthly house of this tabernacle were dissolved, we have a building of God, a house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens.

* * * * *

The above article, so beautifully written by Dr. T. C. Bates, surely is adaptable to all old homes which have ceased to function in the role for which they were built.

For instance, "Courtland," (sometimes known as "The Big House") in which I was born, could easily be "this old home." In years gone by it truly served its purpose as a happy and active home for so many for almost sixty years. It supplied security, shelter, good food and love to five generations and their friends. It created sweet memories, (some sad) which will live on by picture and world of mouth.

I know every inch of this colonial type home and can in memory from basement to attic recall the furnishings of each room.

Its present demolition has made my memory more vivid. It was built with love and anticipation and it is now being dismantled with love and an insight into the future. So, instead of feeling sad, I feel very grateful for the pleasant memories for the love which prompted the construction of this house which was truly a hospitable home.

Now, I feel thankful and hopeful that some useful building will rise on this site as Samuel L. Ferguson and his beloved wife, Adelia, stood for progress, and so must we, their descendants.

Park Ranger Finds Ring

Mrs. Doris Mitchell, secretary to W. C. Dudley, says that thanks to the help of park ranger Bill Taylor at Holiday Lake she has recovered her Appomattox High School ring. The ring was lost this summer in the lake by her son, Calvin. Repeated efforts to locate the missing ring were made by Vo-Ag instructor Richard B. Carter, using a metal detector. Then this week, with the lake water at a low level, Bill Taylor located the ring buried in more than six inches of mud. Mrs. Mabel Simpson, jeweler at Wilke's is polishing the ring so that Mrs. Mitchell can once again wear it.

Linda Jo Is 1970 Homemaker Of Tomorrow

Linda Jo Moses has been named Appomattox County high school's 1970 Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow. Selected on the basis of her score in a December 2 "knowledge and attitudes examination for which a record 646,041 senior girls in 15,040 of the nation's high schools were enrolled, she is now eligible for state and national honors. She will also receive a specially designed silver charm from General Mills, sponsor of the annual educational program.

Test papers of all school winners in the state are currently undergoing additional judging, and a State Homemaker of Tomorrow will be named in March. She will be awarded a $1,500 college scholarship; the second-ranking girl in the state receives a $500 educational grant. Additionally, first place winners from the 51 states and the District of Columbia—together with advisors from their schools—will receive an expense-paid educational tour of Washington, D.C., and Colonial Williamsburg, Va., this spring. Climax of the tour will be an event on Capitol Hill.

Begun by General Mills in the 1954-55 school year, the Betty Crocker Search for the American Homemaker of Tomorrow is designed to emphasize the importance of homemaking as a career. During its 16-year history, more than seven million young women have been enrolled in the program and scholarship grants total approximately $1-3/4 million.

The test which forms the basis for selection of winners is prepared and scored by Science Research Associates, Chicago. Schools of state winners are awarded sets of Encyclopedia Britannica by Encyclopedia Britannica, Inc.

Susan Weatherly Plans Career In Fashion

Miss Susan Ann Weatherly, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Mark G. Weatherly, Box 684, Appomattox, Virginia, plans a fashion career and has been accepted by the Fashion Institute of America, a division of Massey Junior College, Atlanta, for the September 73 quarter.

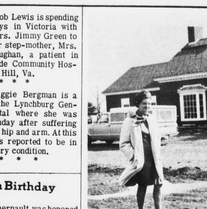
Susan will follow a two-year course of study embracing all facets of the fashion industry from fashion design and coordination to fashion merchandising and photography.

Included in her curriculum is a field trip to New York to observe wholesale buying techniques in that city's famed garment district, visit advertising agencies and attend special seminars especially conducted for FIA students by leading fashion retailers and magazines.

Susan will also have the opportunity to study at Massey London, for one or two quarters, with study complemented by scheduled travel to Paris, Rome and other fashion and cultural centers on the European continent.

Rescue Squad Says "Thanks"

The Rescue Squad is indebted to many people for help in conducting their annual drive for funds. Grover Beasley, Jr. Squad reporter says that a complete list is almost impossible to compile because so many people helped. However, the Squad is particularly grateful to Mrs. Ruth Drinkard, Donald Webb, Malcolm Coleman, Russell Chernault, the Pamplin Ruritan Club, Evergreen Ruritan Club, Girl Scouts of Appomattox, Oakville Ruritan Club, Spout Spring Ruritan Club and others, including members of the Squad who gave many hours of their time.



Nearly A Decade Since Operation

Mrs. Ethel St. John, teller at Fidelity National Bank, Appomattox, has an opportunity to check progress on the new bank facility on Moses St. And "progress" has a different meaning for her, too, dating from her successful operation April 1960 to correct a congenital heart defect. Mrs. St. John says she and other heart patients thank their many friends who donate to the Bloodmobile, give to the annual February Heart Fund drive and other related causes so that everyone can benefit from heart research. Mrs. St. John and her husband, Kenneth, live in Evergreen. They are parents of two sons, James Lee and Dennis Wayne.

She Won Ribbons, Also

In the write-up regarding winners of the Woman's Club Fine Arts Show is last week's TIMES-VIRGINIAN, through error, the names of one of our most talented contestants was omitted.

Mrs. Louise Barger won a blue ribbon in the Artist Division for her pastel "Snow scene". Mrs. Barger also won a blue ribbon for a lap-desk that is over 100 years old that she had refinished and decoupaged, she also won a red ribbon for a decoupage key chain.

We regret that this was not in the original story, as Mrs. Barger has done some lovely work and certainly deserves credit for her efforts.

Student Nurse At Conference

Wilsie Sue Paulette, a senior in the School of Nursing of Virginia Commonwealth University in Richmond, attended the Second National Student Conference on Medical Education sponsored by the Student American Medical Association in Chicago, Ill., February 5-7. She also attended sessions of the American Medical Association's conference on Medical Education February 7-9, also in Chicago.

Appo HD Club

Because of a study course being offered at Liberty Baptist Church, the date of the meeting of the Appomattox Home Demonstration Club is Monday, Feb. 16, instead of the date originally announced. The meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Schyler B. Marshall at 10 a.m.
